Professional Safety Consulting Expanding to Focus on Enhanced Loss Control

The transportation risk management company launches new website as vital instrument in clients' toolbox

BRANSON, Mo., September 30, 2019 — Government regulations, such as ELD mandates, have proven to be a major factor driving growth for Professional Safety Consulting (PSC). The company has provided nationwide risk management and services to the transportation industry since 1987. Professional Safety Consulting continues to offer more services to its customers and is now covering a wider range of industries and expanding its consulting services nationally. The new website is focused on elevating that level of service offering.

New leadership was announced earlier this year with Johnny Schrunk taking the reins of the company as President. “We remain family-owned,” said Johnny Schrunk, “It was important to my father, the founder of PSC, that we remain independent in a world where many of our competitors are part of a larger conglomerate.” Schrunk believes that remaining family-owned allows the company to continue to be nimble and quick, fast to implement, and dedicated to the personal communication and relationships that they, as a family, have developed through the years.

Company leaders will be attending Motor Carrier Insurance Education Foundation Conference this week in Orlando, Florida. The conference is designed for individuals wishing to remain current and thereby well-equipped to confidently provide insurance and related services within the ever-changing environment that transportation companies operate.

“Attendance at the MCIEF Conference demonstrates our continual commitment to serving the industry with the nation’s top loss control services,” said Schrunk. “With our new website launch just prior to the conference, we are providing new resources that we believe enhances our position as one of the nation’s leading transportation loss control providers,” said Schrunk.

Professional Safety Consulting has grown through the years due to improvement of operational efficiency, business productivity and wise financial management for the clients they serve. The company offers loss control services through on-site and phone risk evaluations for many types of businesses, in multiple markets. Types of coverage range from auto liability to property and workers compensation. “We are problem-solvers,” says Schrunk. “The marketplace and industry are constantly changing, and we do the work so our customers can stay ahead of the cycles and remain profitable.”
